ANNOUNCEMENTS

A YEAR-END FUNDRAISING CHALLENGE!

Camp for All Kids has challenged each of the 5 participating camps to see if we can get 100% participation from our camp families in a year-end fundraising campaign. A gift of any size will help us reach our ultimate goal! $6,000 was raised on Giving Tuesday alone- let's keep up that momentum!

Plus, you can DOUBLE YOUR IMPACT thanks to a generous group of alumni across our camps who have committed to match gifts to CFAK received before December 31, 2025 up to $20,000.

This is a GREAT way to teach your camper the importance of giving and how they can contribute to their own camps during the off-season.

Please visit the CFAK website to make your donation and select "Camp Kamaji" for your donation to be counted in this challenge!

THANK YOU!

THINGS TO DO FOR OTHERS

- Make cards for nursing homes, hospitalized kids or troops
- Create care kits to be shared with shelters or local outreach organizations: socks, granola bars, soap (and other hygiene items), sanitary pads/tampons, mittens...
- Donate gently used coats and winter gear
- Bake treats for your local fire station
- Donate food items to a local food pantry
- Create a fundraising project for Camp for All Kids!
- Check out DoSomething.org; Project Linus, VolunteerMatch.org, Operation Gratitude, Cradles to Crayons for ideas.

GIFT IDEAS FOR CAMPERS

WANT: • An animal onesie; friendship bracelet making kit, personalized stationery.

NEED: • A session/summer at Kamaji 2026!

WEAR: • A piece of Kamaji swag: check out the new "Holiday" tee!

READ: • Scroll down for list of camp-themed books on the page below!

GIFT IDEAS FOR PARENTS

- A coupon book: Make your parents' bed, Breakfast in bed, A walk together, Quality time of their Choice, Do one of your Parents' chores for them.
- List of Appreciation: Create a list of at least 10 reasons why you appreciate your parent- be specific.
- With money you have saved- take your parent out to eat, or for a hot chocolate!
- Start a Happy Book for your Family: Everyone takes a turn listing things that make them happy. Encourage family to revisit the book when they need a boost!

WINTER BREAK READING LIST SUGGESTIONS:

All Camp Themed-Of course!

1. Camp - Kayla Miller (Ages 8-12)

A hugely relatable graphic novel about friendship, independence, and finding your place at camp.

2. Lumberjanes (Series) - Noelle Stevenson (Ages 8-14)

Girl-powered, funny, & adventurous. While over-the-top, it celebrates bravery, friendship, and the spirit of camp.

3. Camp Average - Craig Battle (Ages 9-12)

A hilarious look at all things camp—the cabins, the competitions, the counselors.

4. Sleepaway Girls - Jen Calonita (Ages 11-15)

Light, fun YA about a girl spending her first summer as a CIT (like the Kamaji LT program!). Great for older campers excited about leadership roles.

5. Camp Shady Crook - Lee Gjertsen Malone (Ages 10-13)

A smart, funny adventure about scams, schemes, and figuring out who you want to be. Camp antics at their best.

6. Camp Out!: The Ultimate Kids' Guide - Lynn Brunelle (Ages 7-14)

More nonfiction than story, but has skills, games, & outdoor know-how that make camp feel both exciting and approachable.

7. The Firefly Summer - Morgan Matson (Ages 9-12)

A warm, nostalgic middle-grade read that captures friendship, growth, and what makes summer magical.

8. Nikki and Deja: Summer Camp - Karen English (Ages 7-10)

Perfect for younger/newer campers who may feel a little nervous. Sweet, real, and reassuring.

9. The Secret of Shadow Lake (Camp Runamuck) - Rachelle Delaney (Ages 8-11)

A mystery twist set at a summer camp—fun, adventurous, and great for sparking imaginations.

10. The Girls' Book of Adventure - Michele Lecreux (Ages 7-13)

A fun mix of challenges, projects, and camp-friendly activities to help kids feel empowered heading into summer.

NYE CANDLE LIGHTING

For years and years, Kamaji campers and staff from all over the world have joined together in relighting their O' Naug-She-Nodin candles during the holiday season. We invite you to take part in this tradition — with us and the rest of Kamaji's summertime family — on New Year's Eve. Relight your O' Naug-She-Nodin candle to celebrate the year and relive the memories of summer 2026. Misplaced your final O'Naug candle? No problem. The importance is in the act, not the candle. You can still participate by lighting a different candle.

WHEN I LIGHT MY CANDLE ON NEW YEAR'S EVE THERE'LL BE MUCH GREATER WARMTH THAN ONE FLAME FOR THE FRIENDSHIPS I MADE AT CAMP KAMAJI WILL BE CLOSE AROUND ME AGAIN.

ALTHOUGH I KNOW THERE'S SO FAR BETWEEN US I NEVER FEEL CUT OFF AT HOME FOR I KNOW THE FRIENDSHIPS THAT WE MADE TOGETHER HELP ME THROUGH THOSE TIMES ALONE.

SO LET YOUR DREAMS BURN AS BRIGHT AS THIS FLAME AND LET YOUR MEMORIES RUN FREE FOR SOON ENOUGH THE SUMMER WILL RETURN AND BACK AT KAMAJI WE CAN BE .

BE SURE TO SHARE YOUR NYE CANDLE LIGHTING PHOTOS WITH US! EMAIL YOUR PHOTOS KAT@KAMAJI.COM.

JASON'S JOKE

What do snowmen call their kids?

Content created just for YOU, the parent!!

As soon as the fancy serving dishes were put away after Thanksgiving, I instantly felt “behind” for the next holiday. This time of year always feels like a sprint. The holidays are somehow both joyful and exhausting: the choir concerts, holiday light tours, holiday cards, gift coordination, negotiating with your kids’ toes about whether or not they can stick it out for another season in their winter boots and that is IN ADDITION to your usual work schedule, the carpooling, extracurriculars and cooking meals (WHY are there so many meals?!)- every family I talk to seems to be juggling schedules. If you’re feeling it, you’re not alone—I’m right there with you.

A few days ago, while feeling frozen (yes, new word) by my calendar, I had one of those small but honest realizations: I spend so much time making sure everyone else has their special time, whether it be their winter sport, time with their friends, “core memory makers” and their favorite meals... I often forget to give a gift to myself- REST. And if I’m feeling that way, chances are many of our campers are, too.

Winter has a quiet way of reminding us that rest isn’t indulgent, we aren’t being lazy—it’s essential. Nature does it effortlessly: the trees slow their energy, the days shorten, animals settle into rhythms that conserve strength. But humans? We push right through, hoping that if we just “get through this week,” the next one will magically feel lighter.

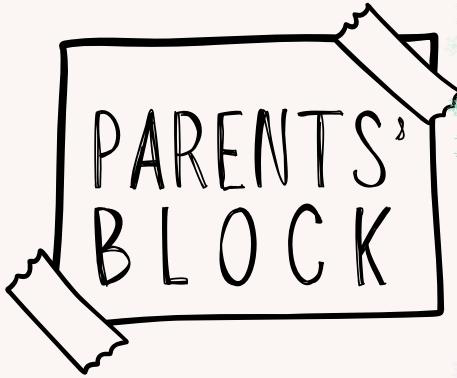

At camp, it is really very different.

One of the things I’m proudest of at Kamaji is how intentionally we build rest into our days. The outside world often conditions kids (and us as parents!) to stay constantly busy—school, sports, homework, repeat—which is why camp offers a different rhythm. Every day includes time for kids to slow down, breathe, and choose how they want to recharge.

Rest Period is one of the best examples. It may sound simple—a quiet hour after lunch—but it’s often the time campers (and counselors!) all need. It’s where friendships deepen over quiet giggles and friendship bracelets, where campers read, write letters (at least twice a week!), braid hair, draw, or simply stare at the grain in the wood next to their bed and let their thoughts drift (yes, that’s a valid activity!). Campers leave rest period, more centered, more patient, more ready to take on the next adventure- third period here they come.

Then there are our Free Periods, another piece of camp that feels small but is deeply impactful. Kids get to choose how to spend that time. Swim, play tetherball, work on friendship bracelets, sit on the stone steps, finish an art project, take a shower, or just be (and this usually means sitting on “The Pig”). That autonomy—the chance to listen to what they need—is something many kids rarely get the other ten months of the year.

Parents are often surprised to hear that campers’ favorite Evening Programs are Council Fire and Camp History Night. During each of these programs campers are sitting and listening. During Council Fire it is underneath a canopy of red pines. As we listen to stories and songs, I watch campers trace the dirt with their fingers, stare at the sky in the hopes of catching a glimpse of our eagles and watch the smoke drift lazily up towards the clouds.

Camp History night is a favorite because they get to listen to an old lady (it's me, I'm the old lady) tell the story about Kamaji. How it started and where traditions began. They ask me the same stories every summer, as if on cue, we play our roles and we all take comfort in that.

Some camps have done away with Rest Periods. What if kids "get bored"? Let's fit in another activity or project instead. And I say, is that so bad? Isn't it in these times that we can collect our thoughts, slow down, be present? I've come to believe that one of the most important things camp teaches in addition to resilience and independence, is the ability to recharge. It is important to understand when your internal battery is dipping and to have a few go-to ways to restore it. Sometimes we must force ourselves to stop. Slow down, and just let ourselves sit. And maybe that's a lesson for us grownups, too.

So, as we move through this winter season, I hope you'll give yourself permission to build in your own versions of Rest Period and Free Period. Ten minutes with a hot cup of coffee- not a reheated one. A short walk without phoning into a conference call. Letting your kids have an unstructured afternoon without orchestrating it. And definitely sit in front of a fire at some point. These tiny pockets of stillness add up, hopefully you can find some peace and comfort in these moments.

The truth is, none of us can give our best when we're running on empty. Not every night or has to be a core memory or a family tradition. Camp reminds me every summer: when we protect time for rest, to slow down—for ourselves and our kids—everything else becomes lighter, brighter, and more joyful.

Here's to slowing down, even just a little, during these winter months. We all deserve it.

Expertly yours,
Kat

RANDY'S RAMBLINGS

Did you know Kamaji has a year-round camp caretaker? Randy knows camp inside and out and is the fixer of all the things and the doer of all the tasks; he's absolutely invaluable to us! 2026 is his 20th summer at Kamaji!

The picture on the front page of the Rainbow Connection each month is taken at the same spot, at the top of the stone steps looking out on Wolf Lake, in real time so you can see the changing seasons at Kamaji!

Hello from Camp Kamaji! The weather had been beautiful for the longest time but finally turned cold last week and we have snow! The lake iced over sometime over Thanksgiving Break.

I have been fixing some cabins that had some storm damage from last summer and also winterized all the buildings and plumbing for camp. Lately Ollie and I have been cleaning up the woods between parking lot and art village.

Almost all of my family except Nick and his family, who live in New Mexico, were home for Thanksgiving. He plans on coming for Christmas but then Josh will not be coming until New Years. Hard to get everyone together at one time now!

Also, my 7th grandchild was born November 1st to my daughter, Georgia. She had a healthy almost 9 lbs boy named Carson 😊. One more grand baby due for my son, Chris, coming before Christmas. So, needless to say, we have a busy Christmas season coming up!

Hope you all have a wonderful time with family for holidays. Well that's enough ramblings from me...
